Comprital gives a strong technical and legal assistance after the selling stage.
Basically, Comprital's services can be grouped into 4 areas:
- Customized recipes, developed within hours of request and supplied complete with relevant nutritional information and technical data;
Industrial consultancy, which begins months before we begin supplying properly, and is continued through the estabilishment of constant contact with those in charge of operating the equipment;
the provision of updates and professional training courses, run by technicians from our R&D team;
the provision of legal updates and advice in relation to current legislation relevant to our customers.
